Garrett Mase was born and raised on a dairy farm in Lebanon, Pennsylvania where his family bred numerous All-American Brown Swiss under the Meadow Hill prefix. While in 4-H he participated in dairy judging and was 1st at both Delaware Valley & Penn State contests as well, as 4th overall at WDE.

Up until January of 2018, Garrett and his wife Maggie, along with their 3 children operated a small dairy farm of about 45 cows, consisting mainly of Holsteins and few Brown Swiss. In the short 9.5 years, they took pride in making the Holstein World's list of top BAA's in the country and breeding and developing many excellent cows. Topping their breeding achievements thus far is Mase's Manor NK Deuce Minnie who was scored EX 94 at 7 years of age.

Garrett, along with his family enjoy showing and have had several All-Pennsylvania award winning cows and heifers, as well as National Bell Ringer's and an All-American nomination. They currently own about 30 head of Holsteins & Brown Swiss, with heifers and a few cows being housed at their farm in Cochranton, Pennsylvania. Garrett enjoys coaching Mercer County's 4-H Dairy Judging teams. The junior team was awarded first in the state contest in 2019, having the two high individuals for both placings & reasons. Garrett has a passion for breeding and judging dairy cattle and is always humbled and honored to judge a show, "it's truly a privilege to be invited to evaluate cattle."
