Jason Zimmerman grew up leasing and showing Holsteins from his grandparents and uncle, at Artie Jay Farm in Md. This led to fitting cattle along the east coast and the opportunity to work with All-Americans of all breeds. He was part of the winning 4-H judging team at World Dairy Expo in 2010 and the 2nd place collegiate team in 2011 while attending Virginia Tech. Jason has judged local, regional, and state shows from North Carolina to New York. He breeds and owns cattle under the JMZ prefix and currently resides in western N.Y. where he works as the Business Manager for Adisseo.
